The American Friends of the Ludwig Foundation of Cuba (AFLFC), a 501(c)(3) non-profit, tax-exempt organization chartered in the State of New York, has been building cultural bridges between the U.S. and Cuba through exchange programs in the arts since 2000. As diplomatic relations between the two countries are shifting, the work of AFLFC is vital to ensuring a continued dialogue. Together with our partner the Ludwig Foundation of Cuba (LFC), a non-governmental institution in Havana, we continue to play a central role in fostering cultural interchange. In our year-round programs we offer opportunities for professional development while promoting educational and artistic exchange through exhibitions, lectures, concerts, performances and master classes that benefit artists, art professionals, students and local audiences. We inspire artists, assist researchers, disseminate art information, provide instruction on new technology and software, enrich audiences, and facilitate communication between the art communities.

AFLFC offers unique travel programs to Cuba that expose American travelers to the thriving Cuban arts community while generating meaningful personal connections. Given our relationship with the island's cultural organizations and individual artists- both established and emerging- we offer unparalleled access to the art and culture that makes Cuba so special. Intimate, fun, and informative, our trips include visits to world-class museums and galleries, private meetings with influential Cuban artists, and special access to many internationally renowned cultural festivals held in Cuba.

We also offer a variety of new travel programs designed to take advantage of this pivotal moment in Cuban history, and the current boom of artistic production and innovation sweeping the island. In addition to our group tours, we can arrange personal trips for 2-12 people throughout the year. Contact Carole Rosenberg at 212.628.3494, 212.687.2146, or info@AFLFC.org for more information.

AFLFC IN NYC

The celebration of Cuban art and culture in New York City is inherent to AFLFC’s core mission of building cultural bridges between the U.S. and Cuba. Annually we create and support programs and exhibitions that introduce our local NY audiences to the dynamic world of Cuban artistic production. From film festivals to dance projects to museum and gallery installations, AFLFC works year-round to foster bi-national dialogues and artistic exchanges.

THE 18TH HAVANA FILM FESTIVAL NEW YORK

The Havana Film Festival New York (HFFNY) creates a platform for filmmakers from Cuba and Latin America to interact and engage with our diverse audience. Annually, AFLFC screens the latest award-winning films and time-honored classics from Cuba, Latin America, and U.S. Latinos.

In addition to the recent releases, our program included an homage to the father of Cuban feature-film animation Juan Padrón- who joined us to present screenings of his most seminal films and to open an exhibition of his artwork- and an In Memoriam segment dedicated to Eliseo Subiela, the great Argentine director who passed away December 2016. We also paid tribute to the importance of music in Cuban cinema, and were joined by two of Cuba’s most famous musicians: Chucho Valdés, legend of Latin jazz and Telmary Diaz, queen of underground hip-hop.

Philanthropists and art collectors Peter and Susan Kessler; have been longtime volunteers and supporters of AFLFC.

OUR PARTNER: THE LUDWIG FOUNDATION OF CUBA

The Ludwig Foundation of Cuba (LFC) is a non-governmental, non-profit institution located in Havana, created with the mission of protecting and promoting Cuban artists in Cuba and internationally. LFC continues to evolve, redefining its principals, goals and work focus depending on the needs and challenges faced by Cubans in a rapidly changing world. Today, LFC puts a strong emphasis on examining the balance between the public and private sector and opening new roads and granting visibility to alternative forms of artistic expression that may be overlooked by more established institutions. From architecture to mobile app development and theatrical readings to graphic design the Foundation works to educate, nurture and advocate the work of Cuba’s emerging artists.

The Ludwig Foundation also works with American universities to introduce their students to Cuban culture and history developing in-depth academic programs that include lectures, visits to artists’ studios, dance lessons, theater rehearsals, and conversations with leading intellectuals. Among these universities is NYU’s Tisch School of the Arts, which offers programs in documentary video production and photography.

PROFESSIONAL DEVELOPMENT

AFLFC’s model of cooperative programming in the arts aims to foster the professional development of art communities in the United States and Cuba. These programs and projects have provided countless opportunities to artists, art professionals, and students interested in furthering their careers and expanding their educational horizons. Highlights from this year:

• We facilitated student internships at the Ludwig Foundation of Cuba and at AFLFC’s office in New York City.

• The Windows Project partnered with Hunter College’s Arnhold Graduate Dance Education Program, where Windows Project founder and president Pedro Ruiz is the artist-in-residence, to bring two graduate students to Camagüey, Cuba to teach master classes and perform with the Ballet Contemporaneo de Camagüey.

• We collaborated with the International Film Festival in Havana to bring distinguished celebrities from the U.S. filmworld to Cuba to participate in workshops, panel discussions and screenings at the festival and International Film School (EICTV).
